

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1744.

To the Printer and Publick.

T may be remember'd, that last Year I propos'd a Scheme, which, tho' calculated for the particular Good of my Country, had a View to the Advantage of Mankind in general. My Proposal was printed in the Daily Advertiser, April 7, 1743, to which I refer. The 20th of the same Month I was by One, who writes himself Timothy Simple, in a Chapter of common Chairmen, &c. His was directed to the Author of, and printed in the Advertiser. The Printer of the same Paper, on the 17th ditto, published a Letter, signed Corporal Wit, which ought to have been directed to the Author of, and printed in the Advertiser. The Town was entertained at my expense with Fore-Castle Wit, by Thomas Bowling. May 17th, was published by the same Canal, with relation to the Proposals, signed M. P. the First that treats me as a common Humanity, and is written with Solidity. The 19th of the same Paper furnished another Letter on the 19th of May, signed A. B. C. D; supposed from a Body of Politicians. May 27th infers Part of a Letter, to be continued. I know not if it was, my Business calling me

England. May the 28th, contains another Paper signed Linsey-Woolsey Person. There are a Sort of People laugh out of me, and make the most serious Subjects those of Mirth and Ridicule. The Spectator calls these merry Fellows, as they are often sadly merry; and their Mirth gives Pain to the Seditious and Conspirators, who really pity their Weakness, which degrades the Character of the human Species; of this are most of the above-mention'd Letters. He proposes any Thing which may tend to the Promotion of Virtue, is, I find, to be turned into Ridicule, and the Roman Love of one's Country they have heard of, and has been of late so little practised, that the Man who proposes any Thing for Publick Good, is at Heart the Honour and Interest of the Nation, and is as a Madman, and treated as such. Is Publick Spirit then entirely swallowed up by Corruption? Is Virtue drowned in Luxury? And has Libertism and Religion? Are we reduced to such a wretched Condition, and are we so degenerate, that none but an unhappy Britain so overwhelm'd with Evils, that it seem'd impossible the should ever emerge; and are the Virtues of our Ancestors so entirely lost, that he who tells himself that they may be revived, ought to be taken to Bedlam? God forbid! I am satisfied this Generation affords a Number of Virtuous, Religious Men, who never bend the Knee to Belial, never took a Bribe, never betray the Liberties of their Country, and sell the Rights of their Posterity; who never contributed to the impoverishing these Nations, to enlarge and support Foreign Dominions; Men of Justice, Probity, Honour, and Publick Spirit; Men who fear God, and are, consequently, the Bulwarks of the Nation. As their Virtue may avert the Divine Wrath, and their Swords be the most likely to defend their Country, the upright look Death in the Face with Steadiness; for trusting in the Mercies of God, he fears not future Retribution. The Justice of his Cause gives Vigour to his Heart, and Strength to his Arms; he rushes into Battle like a Lion upon his Prey; and either falls a glorious Sacrifice to the Publick Safety; or Victory rewarding his Zeal for the common Good, he makes his Country triumph over her Enemies, and establishes her Security.

To these, Sir, to these Englishmen, to these brave Descendants from the illustrious Patrons of Liberty, I address myself by the Canal of your Paper: To these, who are virtuous in the worst of Times; who uphold, by invincible Courage, an unshaken Love of their Country, scorn to despond; and as Antæus received fresh Strength by his Falls, grow more Resolute by the Difficulties oppos'd, knowing, that in the Cause of Virtue, there are none insuperable.—I despise too much the Authors of the Treatment I have met with, to give them any Answer; their Folly be their Punishment; and if they are diverted in exposing their Weakness, let them again attack me, for once more shewing my Zeal for my Country; and my Opinion, that no Nation can produce more Virtuous, Brave, Loyal, Wise, Publick-Spirited, Benevolent, and truly Religious Men, than Great Britain.—I therefore, in the Name of the tremendous Deity, the great Being of Beings, whom, with reverential Awe, unfeigned Humility, and a thorough Sense of my own Nothingness, I invoke to assist me; and who is Witness of the Sincerity of my Heart, in writing to promote the Honour and Interest of these Kingdoms, &c.

I again aver, that we may, if we will not be blind (I speak now to the many) be an united, happy, and affluent People; and once more the Arbiters of Europe; live in Harmony at Home, and be revered Abroad.—That we may be so blest'd, has not only been my constant Wish, but continual Study; and that it depends on us to be so, I have the Testimony of Holy Writ. The Fear of the Lord is the Beginning of Wisdom; and Piety, a luxuriant Source of all Blessings; Charity covers a Multitude of Sins, and Justice confutes the Favour of the Almighty. Lay these Things to Heart, O my Countrymen; consider well, the Past, the Present, and the Future; look back on the Paths you have trodden, and if they have deviated from those of Religion and Virtue, return to the Way of Truth and Righteousness: For as a Blessing attends the just, so, infallible Ruin, will overtake and overwhelm the Wicked. To what, if not to our own Folly and Iniquity, can we attribute the present despicable Figure we make on the Theatre of Europe?—Mercy may long withhold the Stroke of Justice, but Repentance can only avert it: Believe me, my dear Countrymen, the Grievances you now so loudly complain of, are but a Prelude to more intolerable Evils; if instead of being warned by them to turn your Eyes inward, examine your Hearts, and atone for your Sins, you grow hardened by Afflictions; complain not of wicked and ignorant Ministers, nor hope a Change of Men will produce a Change of Measures, if not for your greater Oppression, while you take no care to examine on what Basis are raised the Groups of Ills you wish removed. If your Search proves vain, if you cannot discover on what they are founded, blinded by Self-love, and the Folly of preferring private to publick Interest; which in short time will leave you none; let me, whom you have treated as a Madman, instruct you. I have, in the Scheme which has been the Subject of your Mirth, and might have been of your Rejoicing, not only pointed out the Foundation-Stone of all the Evils you have experienced, but shewn you the Method to sap it, and overthrow the tottering Superstructure.

The Turks say, Every Man has in his Heart a Drop of black Blood, which corrupts his natural Integrity; this the Angel Gabriel, opening the Breast of Mahomet, and extracting his Heart, squeezed out; after which he was never guilty of Sin. Thus we may say, Every Man has some particular favourite Sin, which we may term the black Drop, and this must be squeez'd out: For as the Smoke arising from different Perfumes burnt on the same Altar, unite, and form one Cloud, in which it ascends; so the Wickedness of Individuals may, by uniting, bring down heavy Judgments upon a whole Nation, did not the Virtue of some just Men avert them; and the Almighty, for their Sakes, spare it; but there are Sins and Imbecillities which are National, and become Characteristicks. Thus Drunkenness in the Northern People; Pride, Cruelty, Arrogance, Superstition, Treachery, Falshood, seem to have divided Europe, and every one singly to preside in its peculiar State; tho' not so despotically, as to exclude the Respection opposing Virtues, and future Happiness: Let me advise every Individual seriously to understand the reforming one Man, and making him thus a Friend to his Country.

If this Exhortation proves Matter for Ridicule, I shall only say, Quos Deus vult perdere, prius dementat, and warn the just to separate themselves, and follow Virtue to whatever Climate our Sins shall banish her.

Admiralty-Office, December 5, 1744.

Whereas by an Establishment, which has been long in Force in the Royal Navy, a Schoolmaster is allowed to each of his Majesty's Ships of the Third, Fourth, and Fifth-Rate, with the Allowance of Midshipman's Pay, and Twenty Pounds a Year besides for his Encouragement; but an Opinion having prevail'd of late Years, that since the Erection of a Royal Academy at Portsmouth, for Educating and Training up Gentlemen Sons for his Majesty's Sea Service, the Establishment of Schoolmasters has been abolished; which Opinion being hurtful to his Majesty's Service, by preventing Persons from applying to be employed in that Capacity, and thereby depriving the Youth, who serve on Board his Majesty's Ships, of the necessary Assistance for perfecting themselves in the Art of Navigation: The Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty think proper to order this publick Notice to be given, that the Establishment of Schoolmasters on Board the Ships of the Royal Navy is still in Force; and that if Persons properly qualified, by having pass'd an Examination at Trinity House, will apply to this Office, they shall meet with all due Encouragement, and be warrant'd as Schoolmasters, on board such of his Majesty's Ships as may be in want of them.

Tho. Corbett.

Admiralty-Office, December 14, 1744.
Whereas the Leave of Absence given to the Petty-Officers and Foremastmen belonging to his Majesty's Sloop Spy, is expired, and the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty having ordered them to be turned over to his Majesty's Sloop Lizard, at Portsmouth; It is their Lordships' Direction, that the said Men do repair immediately to that Sloop; where they will be paid the Remainder of their Wages for the Spy, before the Lizard proceeds to Sea; and if they apply to the Navy Board, they will be allowed Conduct Money, and Carriage for their Cloths and Bedding. But if they fail to repair down to Portsmouth, as above directed, they will not only lose the aforesaid Wages, but Directions will be given for apprehending them, in order to their being tried at a Court Marshal as Deserters, and punished with the utmost Severity of the Law.

Thomas Corbett.

PARALYTICON, seu Anima Nervorum

A Suspensious Chymical Essence, which infallibly

cures the Palsy, and all other Nervous

DISEASES:

THE very first Dose of it (a few Drops)

only instantly penetrates the inmost Recesses of the Nerves, and darting almost as quick as Lightning thro' the Human System, diffuses kindly Warmth and general Comfort weakens Limbs, and all Parts of the Body, and affords sensible Relief in the most obstinate Palsy, and all Paralytic seizures, Shaking, Trembling, Numbness, Deadness, and whether universal, or of particular Parts only, or whether contracted, or of many Years Continuance

And as the very first Dose makes an apparent demerit ment, so the continuing of it for a short Time as surely a perfect Cure, not only of the most grievous Palsy or the Nerves, but also of their Cramp-like Contractions, Stiff-of the Sinews, and all other Nervous Complaints, as that in Persons of either Sex, or of any Age, and tioned by preceding Illnesses, fast Living, hard Drinking,

Courses of Physick, great Colds, or excessive Fatigue

Mind or Body.

Words cannot sufficiently express the uncommon, the Efficacy of this great Medicine, as all who take it freely ledge; and its vastly superior Excellency to all other be more fecundely rely'd on, for the absolute Cure of the all Paralytic Effects and Nervous Indispositions, than the Cures in for Intermitents.

It rectifies all Disorders of the first Passages, creates an procures a good Digestion, enriches the Blood, restores the Vigour and Ready Use of the Limbs, and strengthens the Joints, Muscles, Tendons, Ligaments, and whole Habit
